Cindy loved the use of bright colors and wanted something that showed action, so she chose a skateboard theme. To make the pictures pop and draw attention to them, she decided to keep the backgrounds simple--just a bold color only. For this design, Cindy used Prisma color art markers to lay down the color.

About Cindy

After college, I worked as a kitchen designer for several years (pre-CAD) hand-drawing perspectives and renderings of Amish cabinetry designs before having kids late in life and becoming a stay-at-home, homeschool mom, who loves to create artwork in my free time. Most of my artwork is drawn with colored pencils or pan pastels, but I also enjoy other mediums like acrylic painting, graphite pencils or art markers from time to time too. I draw a variety of things--from commissioned pet portraits and people portraits, to animals and things in nature that reflect the rural area in which I live. I have painted multiple set designs in our local community theater and a couple years ago I won a flower box art contest for a major intersection in our small town. Winning that contest also opened the door for me to be one of the artists selected to paint an outdoor wall mural in an alley on Main Street. I have also enjoyed painting wall murals in people's homes and in church classrooms. And just for fun I also enjoy painting rocks and scrapbooking. Pretty much not a day goes by that I am not working on something artistic.
